This is an e mail sent from Paul Baker to Wayne Hedberg on April 23, 2002.

About three weeks ago, I called Jerry Hascall and left him a voice mail asking about their response to our review which was due March 8. Jerry left me a voice mail at 11:08 PM on 4/10 indicating he would be assigning a civil engineer to work on the project. He also said he would call me back, but I never got another call from him.

This morning, I got a call from Bill Curry who is an engineer at the power plant. He was just handed our response to the original submittal. I asked if there had been any work done on it, and although he wasn't sure, he didn't think there had. I told him he should write us an extension request apologizing for the delay and giving a realistic time frame for completing the response.
